To the best of our knowledge, no Russia-originating iron, steel, aluminum, copper, or nickel is incorporated into products distributed by DigiKey or its supply chain, and we are in compliance with Council Regulation (EU) No 833/2014, the United Kingdom's Russia (Sanctions) (EUExit) (Amendment) Regulations 2023 and the US Executive Order (E.O.) 14068 of March 11, 2022, as amended by E.O. 14114 of December 22, 2023.

DigiKey maintains a list of over 2,000 suppliers for which we are an authorized distributor. Each of these suppliers is responsible for maintaining and controlling their supply chain and complying with applicable sanctions regarding the origin of sourced materials. DigiKey relies on its suppliers to inform us of changes in sourcing that could impact compliant sourcing of product DigiKey distributes.

DigiKey is simply a distributor of components and is not involved in the sourcing of the elements that make up the components we purchase. We trust our supplier partners with their ability to source the needed materials to provide the various products. It is possible that some raw materials are only mostly available in various parts of the world – which our supplier partners are involved with controlling their supply chain. We try to stay as close as possible with our supplier partners to garner any relevant information that would hinder delivery or production and pass that on in a timely manner to our customer base.
